Destinations

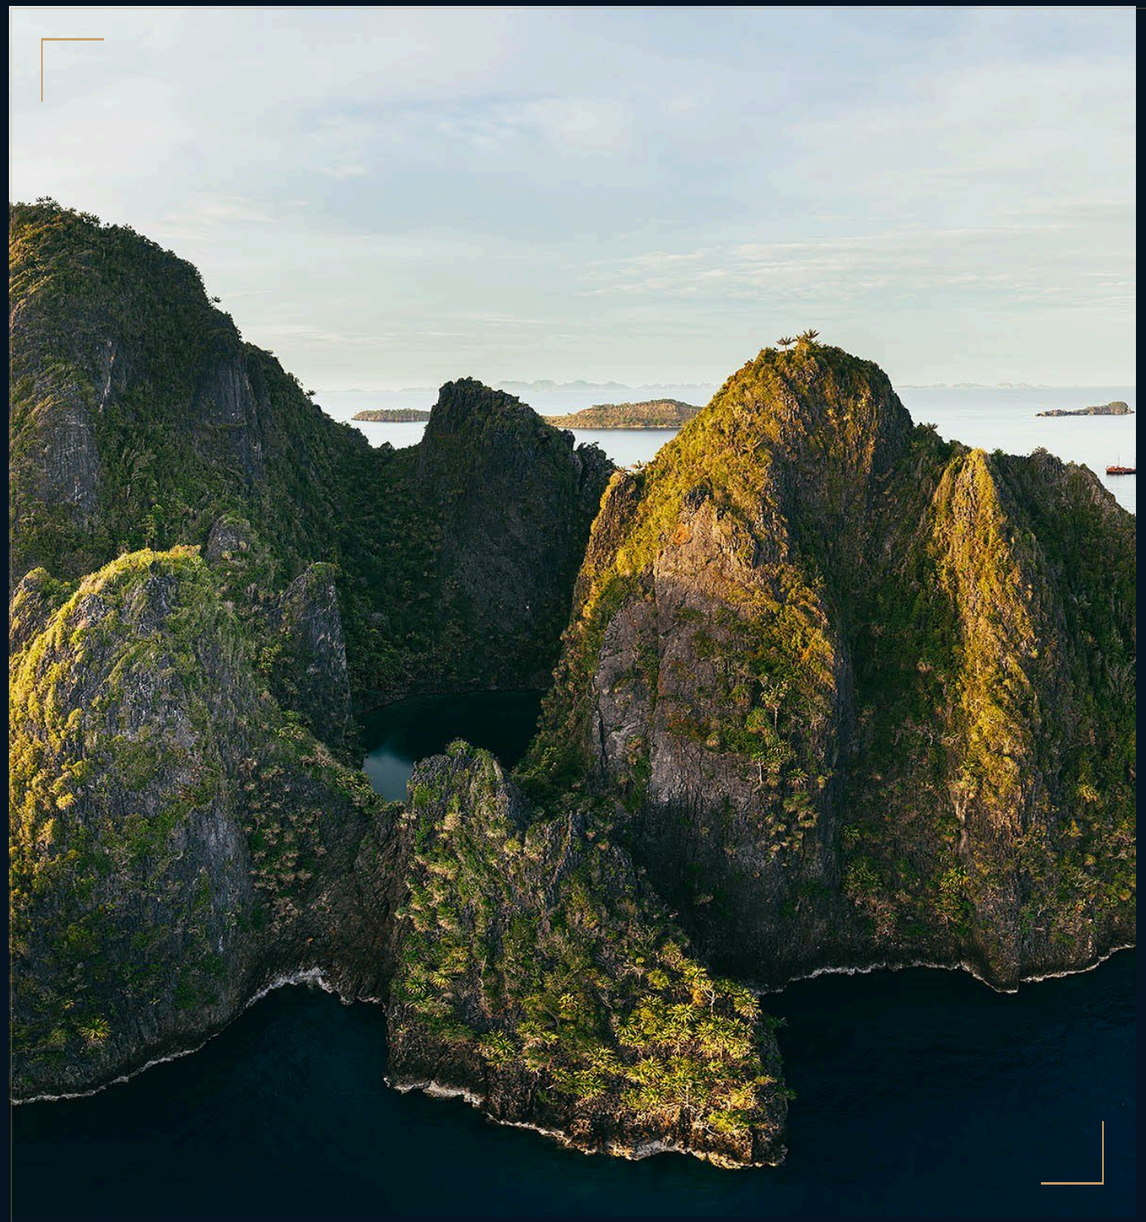

Raja Ampat · Komodo · Deep South Komodo · Komodo – Sumbawa · Forgotten Islands · Alor & East Flores · Triton Bay · Banda Sea

DESTINATIONS

Raja Ampat

The Bird's Head Seascape, spanning over 225,000 square kilometres, is an ecological gem in Eastern Indonesia with the world's most biodiverse coral reefs – and Raja Ampat, often called the Coral Triangle's crown jewel, is its highlight. Its islands, including Misool, Batanta and the Fam Islands, offer an array of experiences; Misool is renowned for legendary dive spots, and the rocky islands southeast of Misool are perfect for snorkelling and exploring caves and underground rivers.

With more species found here than anywhere else, diving in Raja Ampat is akin to underwater birdwatching, with dive sites suitable for all skill levels.

DESTINATIONS

Komodo National Park

Established in 1980 and a UNESCO World Heritage Site since 1991, Komodo National Park is a pristine haven of biodiversity in the Flores Sea, named one of the “World’s Top Ten Destinations” by National Geographic in 2017. It comprises the three main islands of Komodo, Rinca and Padar, with smaller islands and seamounts.

Lying where the Indian and Pacific Oceans meet, the Indonesian Throughflow draws nutrient-rich water into the park, creating an astounding variety of habitats and species within a small area – with minimal travel time between dive sites.

DESTINATIONS

Komodo Extension to Sumbawa

Komodo voyages extend to Teluk Saleh in Sumbawa for one of nature's most unforgettable experiences: swimming with whale sharks, the largest fish in the world, which often gather near traditional fishing platforms in the calm, sheltered bay.

Along the way, Sangeang Island – a spectacular volcanic island off Sumbawa – is a top macro diving hotspot of black sandy slopes, with underwater hot springs, a traditional village and an active volcano often puffing smoke into the sky.

DESTINATIONS

Forgotten Islands

The Forgotten Islands, or Southeast Moluccas, are a 1,000 km chain of isolated archipelagos stretching from Timor to West Papua, largely untouched by development. Volcanic inner-arc islands and uplifted limestone groups like Leti and Tanimbar mark the eastern edge of Wallacea, where the wildlife shows ties to New Guinea.

The Austronesian peoples here are celebrated for ancestral woodcarvings, hand-woven ikat and intricate baskets. The Seven Seas pioneered diving here from 2010, discovering most of the sites: schools of bumphead parrotfish, tornadoes of big-eye trevally, barracuda, hammerheads and even whale sharks.

DESTINATIONS

Ambon to Maumere

The journey begins in Ambon, famous for critter diving on the black-sand slopes of Ambon Bay – flamboyant cuttlefish, rhinopias, mimic and blue-ringed octopus. Heading into the western Banda Sea, the Lucipara atolls rise from submerged mountains, and Gunung Api is famous for its large population of banded sea kraits, with the chance of tuna, barracuda or hammerheads in the blue.

Continuing east through Alor, Lembata and Flores – towering volcanoes, green hills and tranquil villages – the voyage ends in one of Indonesia's last truly wild corners.

DESTINATIONS

Raja Ampat – Banda Sea

This voyage links two iconic regions, from the coral-rich seascapes and manta cleaning stations of Misool across the open ocean to the legendary Spice Islands. The Banda Islands, once the centre of the global nutmeg trade, offer towering pinnacles with schooling fish, tuna and hammerheads, lava-flow reefs and dramatic walls.

Above water: colonial architecture, cinnamon-scented breezes and welcoming communities – followed by some of the planet's richest macro diving.

DESTINATIONS

East of Flores

The islands east of Komodo – Adonara, Solor, Lembata, Pantar and Alor – are among Indonesia's least explored, with superb dive sites in relative solitude. Days bring diving, village visits, sea kayaking and dinner under the stars.

Classic wall dives, vibrant coral gardens and newly discovered muck sites in Lembata and Pantar – including the rare Rhinopias, the "Holy Grail" for underwater photographers – combine with the critter sites of Maumere, Pura and Alor.

DESTINATIONS

Triton Bay

In West Papua's remote southeastern corner, Triton Bay is a pristine sanctuary encircled by the islands of Aiduma, Dramai and Namatota, with very few other boats around, calm conditions and warm water year-round. Its rich waters bring giant trevally, bluefin jacks, mobulas and endemic species like the flasher wrasse, wobbegong and walking sharks.

Whale sharks are regularly seen around East Kaimana and Namatota beneath the traditional fishing platforms known as bagans.
